Subject: Sweet!
Posted by Wayne Parham on Tue, 23 Jul 2002 21:13:41 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Instead of having two throat sections as you've shown above, you might combine the throats into one, having a common motor chamber. Otherwise, you'll just need to limit the discontinuity where they join as much as possible. If you'll keep it small in relation to wavelength, it won't be a problem.I gotta see this thing when you're done!