Thanks for the info. It sounds great, of course. Preferences are personal and I still have a certain amount of healthy skepticism. But I think the most compelling aspect of the project is that it's something new and different, especially from the Magneplanars I have right now. If I weren't so darned broke! I've gotta take some cues from those Enron and Worldcom execs and figure out how to bleed off cash from the family budget without my wife finding out.
