

---

Subject: Re: Power management

Posted by Shane on Sun, 01 Oct 2006 16:43:32 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Nope. I just have a run of the mill APC surge protector on everything. I do unplug the 12B4 amp from it everytime I'm done using it though. With it just running a two prong plug I don't like the idea of leaving it plugged in when not using it due to no safety ground. I measured the voltage coming from the outlet right after the amp blew the fuse and it was sitting at 120.4V. Pretty low actually for around here. I played the amp for a good hour this morning with no troubles that I could tell, so maybe it was just a weak fuse.

APC

---