I'm glad your kits arrived in good shape and you're pleased with them. You don't need to put tower feet from a corner. They're actually pulled away from the wall about 6 inches so the port can breathe. They sound great, and bass is deep and clean. Hey, by the way, I just signed a lease on for listening. Soon as I get signs up and I've started moving in, I'll post some pictures. I'm hoping to evolve the office space into a nice boutique listening area. So come visit when you can!
