Just a mini rave about the Theater 4's. They continue to sound better and better after about 100 hours give or take 50. They do make great recordings just plain amazing, can make previously blah recordings sufficiently dynamic to sound better and occasionally make some recordings unlistenable. But the most exciting aspect to their quality is how they enhance the effect of changes in everything upstream of them. They are a tweakers/ modders dream! Every change stands out as very obvious! Not just "I think I hear a tad this or a hint of that with this new cap or that new resistor". This is a characteristic of a very refined loudspeaker, however humble the individual parts are, the sum is much greater. Kudos to Wayne and Eminence!G.
