Hi Guys! I'm about midway through the building of the Two Pi towers and I'm begining to think that I've crossed the line to massive overkill. A hundred dollars in parts and thousand dollar cabinets! Oh well, pretty speakers sound better, right? ;) I'm having fun and learning a few things as I go. This is my first experience with veneering. The paper backing is fun. The veneer sands but the paper folds! Nothing a razor knife won't fix! I'll post a few pics of the building process when I have some more time. Also, has anyone used Alpha Core inductors? What's the prefered method of hookup? Thanks,   Jerrod
