

---

Subject: Re: Very cool

Posted by BillEpstein on Tue, 25 Mar 2003 01:02:48 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I used MDF because it's so lightweight and sounds so good. I'm cutting the panels at a friend's shop last week. He has a quad of Jack Russell Terriers who 'can't get no'. So I'm wrestling a 96"X22" (Yeah, that's the 22" against the fence and about 70" overhanging the table) piece through the tablesaw while one of the little beasts starts humping my leg at 9000 RPM! I don't know what veneer to use. I discovered tonight that I'm about one piece short of either Makore, Mahogany or the really lovely weeping Cedar I will use for the JBL/Altec's. E-bay, here I come!

---