

---

Subject: Vent area

Posted by Wayne Parham on Wed, 23 Apr 2003 22:33:24 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

There are indeed a few things to consider here - One is the Helmholtz frequency and another is the Q of the resonator, which is determined by its ratio of reactance to resistance. There is also the issue of port airspeed, which matters if turbulence causes audible artifacts. So vent area is indeed one of the important factors to consider.

---