Subject: Basically, yes, but...
Posted by mollecon on Wed, 14 May 2003 17:15:58 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Only in some cases a tuning at the drivers free air resonance will give a good result, bass response wise. But the reduced excursion at the Helmholz resonance (usually the excursion is down to 1/4 of the unaided diaphragm) does lower the distortion quite a bit.