
Subject: Re: From _AudioXpress_ about t-lines
Posted by lon on Wed, 28 Apr 2004 16:20:36 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Old Colony is the book publishing division of _aX_. And I've subscribed to _audioXpress for 4 years or so. It is celebrating its 35 anniversary. So I have seen the Old Colony book list before. But in all these years I have not seen much about what might be a competitive program to the work of Martin King. Auspurger is referred to in technical articles, but an implementation of a design program, to my knowledge, was never written up in _aX_. I would have to check my old issues. _aX_ is now available on CD-ROM for subscribers to the print version. BTW Old Colony is also reprinting the complete monthly publication called ... name escapes me... in 2 volumes from the '70s. This magazine had all the breakthrough work for the emerging audiophile community. Anyone can get the Old Colony catalog from a request to www.custserve@audioXpress.com.
