

---

Subject: Re: There's just something about wheels

Posted by Wayne Parham on Sun, 20 Jul 2003 02:31:44 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I just sold the Porsche today. Michael is driving these days and there were just too many cars around the house. Alona's, Michael's and mine. And since I've got the Olds as a toy, along with another daily driver just like it, I really didn't have any business having two toys. Many would have moved one of the Olds but I decided to part with the Porsche. It was kinda a drag. Not the car, but parting with it. I like stuff that's made in America, but German cars definitely don't suck.

---