Wow, you stay up late! Talked me into a 16 ohm Seven Pi Pro. Now I've two 2226J's to sell and two empty 4648-8A cabs to try to sell/giveaway/turn into firewood....nah, won't do that! I really checked out Bill's horns at MAF. He was even kind enough to give me extended detail on how to build them. I might give it a shot whenever I get my shop set back up. Or I might just have to start a savings fun to buy some of Bill's horns because they're so damn pretty and come from a great guy. BTW.... Heard you've crossed over to the dark side, and are enjoying a single driver setup. I did the same thing a few months ago. Built my first Voigt pipes and loaded them with a Radio Shack 40-1297's. I'm still shaking my head. Might holler back at you whenver I start on the crossovers.Thanks again, Jerrod
