I think those are very nice horns, and you could certainly make an excellent second set of speakers with them. I'd use a 1" compression horn above them, and crossover somewhere in the 1.2kHz to 1.6kHz range. This makes your horns very compatible with existing technologies.You could also post these on the Swap Meet forum and see if you get any takers. I'll bet they can be shipped surface to America for about a hundred bucks.The Audio Round Table website isn't indexed into search engines yet, so I'm surprised it has as much activity as it does. It will be sometime later this month or even next month before the fastest search engines have it; Slower sites like Yahoo will take six months or more. So you'll see a slow rise in traffic over the course of the year, and for now it's like our own little club.
