In a daring surprise attack without mercy, alien audiophiles raided the office of Pi Speakers guru Wayne Parham early this morning. An elite commando squad entered the office, taking posession of Parham's latest plans for audio speakers of impeccable sound, priced far below the amount they would command in the exclusive high-end market. "Geez, those aliens really know their audio, they only took the latest, greatest stuff", reported one staff member. "Sure hope Wayne's ok." A ransom note, reportedly demanding an unspecified number of JBL drivers for Parham's release, has not been made public by the FBI. Stay tuned...
