Well, I've discovered a few things not to try with veneer, but they sound pretty good. These are next to some old Boston Acoustic A150's that I've worn out several times. It's tough to compare the 2pi's with them because they are so much more efficient I have to turn the amp down half-way when I switch to the 2pi's. This is fun, the only problem is trying to decide what to build next. I'm starting another post to help with that decision. Thanks again,
