Subject: Re: Flux symmetry confirmation
Posted by Wayne Parham on Thu, 04 Mar 2004 23:19:19 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

To provide physical symmetry, the magnet is made so that it has the same flux above and below the voice coil, when no current is applied. This is a matter of making the fixed magnet physically symmetrical, but does not address the issue of flux modulation from electromagnetism. The use of a flux stabilization ring generates counteractive flux to the modulating force of the field coil. Magnums incorporate such a device.