My son is wanting a new puter, since the one he uses is archaic and this laptop I use is vastly underpowered for anything besides surfing and music.He has really gotten into making his animations using freeware like anim8tor and has started doing his own HTML stuff (loves graphics and such and just made a page showing how to solve a Rubiks cube with animation and such). Our laptop barely suffices for this, so I told him if he would save his money that I would spring for 1/2 of a new one. We are looking to spend a total of $1K.What do ya'll suggest to look for as I'm completely dumbfounded by it all?Any suggestions
