Parts Express ships pretty fast to me too, provided what I order is in stock. Aki at BOI Audioworks has always been real quick. Eminence ships fast. Eric Mainardi at Selectronic ships amazingly fast, considering he's in France. Most of the parts houses I've dealt with are pretty fast. Kits are a little slower sometimes because they have to gather parts from inventory. Bottlehead is an example. I ordered a Seduction phono stage and didn't get it for nine months. Must have had to birth that one. The Paramours I ordered were quicker, two months from order to delivery if I remember correctly. I guess I'm another example - We used to be fast, but have slowed down a smidge. We used to almost always ship same day, but now we're usually taking three days for stuff in stock, ten days for out-of-stock and a month for special orders.
