Hi Bill, That's what those horn sleds and trolleys are for. Some folks make elaborate rails with giant wing nuts to lock it down. I've even seen horn boxes with table legs on the front corners. Then they can slide the horn to compensate for different drivers. I wonder about the mids bouncing between the floor and the horn bottom though. (not to mention the ugliness) Would be simple on the A7 cab. Not sure how much difference it makes. Thomas
