Subject: Re: Heat Exchanger Design mods
Posted by Wayne Parham on Tue, 06 Sep 2005 21:56:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

No, not as long as possible and definitely not rubbing. You just want contact all the way to the front of the pole piece.A heatsink on the end will be great. I'd go with aluminum, and be sure the thermal interface between the sink and cooling plug is good. A nice flat fit with plenty of surface area and heat conductive grease is best.