Thanks for the detailed response. I am going to get my speaker books out and do some reading. These are the best speakers with my 45 amp to date.I guess my question should have been more specific. Would raising the the tuning frequency a bit strengthen the mid-bass? If yes, to what extent can I raise the tuning of the boxes to taste with out messing things up? I made two thick paper ports to lengthen the Theatre 4 ports an inch and another two inches from your design's 3.5 inch length. Both seemed to strengthen the lower midbass a bit with some loss of the lowest bass. The percieved midrange was also affected, not sure if it was better or worse. Thanks,Orren
