I've been forcefully removed from my usual medium sized listening room to a spare bedroom, 13.5x11x8ft. Contemplating a new speaker project now that I have corners! Is this too much speaker for this room size? I don't listen very loud (85db or so), use low power amps, and my experience is mostly with single driver type speakers. Can anyone who has experience comment on whether horns can "fade away" like a single driver? Is a two way with dome tweeter better for this room? I do need efficiency.Thanks!Bernie
