Sorry, but you'll need a lot more information to make a good loudspeaker design. I might humbly suggest that the amount of time required to obtain the information you'll need to do a good job would probably be more than the drivers are worth. Then again, the learning experience is worth a lot, so it might be interesting for you on that level. But if you're looking for a good quality build without a lot of enfgineering, you might want to build from plans that have already been designed and tested.
