Subject: Re: Question about matching tweet to woof???
Posted by Wayne Parham on Thu, 16 Mar 2006 14:43:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

A single cap is a first-order network which is practically nothing at all for a compression horn. There is so much low frequency energy passing through a first-order highpass cap that the -3dB frequency point would have to be set very high. I think that's why they've chosen such a small value cap.