I'm with G-Man. What a relief settling down with the Valencias and simple tube units. Then I can play with the GC's and such. But the point is; there is no better sound; just a little different. And it seems for every so-called improvement there is a deficiency that comes along with it. Those old tube guys knew something. I maintain there is nothing that is sounding significantly more musical than a good design from the 50's.
