Subject: Corner Horn positioning "Sweet Spot" for listening...HELP
Posted by Ed White on Fri, 28 Apr 2006 03:29:38 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'm nearing completion of my Theater Seven Pi corner speakers, and I'm wondering about positioning in my listening room. The room is aproximately 14 by 18. Do I position the speakers on the shorter wall, and have the "Throne" at a direct 45 degree angle from each speaker? Does it matter if I sit further back from this "convergence point"? If I put them in the corners on the long side of the room, the 45 degrees from each one aproximately coincides with a seat in the middle of the opposite wall. If it's the other way, it's more in the middle of the room. Any Suggestions?? I know you'd never place conventional speakers this far apart, but they stick out quite aways from the corners.Ed White