Subject: Re: Corner horns without the triangular baffle Posted by Wayne Parham on Sun, 14 May 2006 17:57:34 GMT View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Could be that the top and bottom sections vibrated a little bit like a diving board until you added the rear panels. The design is strong and rigid when all the panels are used, but if the back is omitted, it may leave the unbraced top and bottom sections free to vibrate.