Aha.I'm making the midhorn/tweeter as a one piece removable unit, and was trying to understand the placement envelope of these as it's design parameters allows. God knows this thing would be a beast if were all built into one cabinet. You'd need two men and a truck to move it. It was just a thought. Has anybody ever done a center channel with these guys...kinda like the old Klipsch method? The Sevens in the corners and maybe a 4 pi in the center with the old school center channel wiring setup?Building stuff tends to put you into a sorta mad scientist mode, I'm afraid. It's fun to play with ideas, though.
