I don't know how the reviews went, but I enjoyed the newversion of the Time Machine (2002, whatevs) better than the George Pal original. I got it when it hit the 50 centremainder rack at the local store. I find gems in there butlots of clinkers too. There was even a retro 'sky car'in the Hallmark version of The Snow Queen. And I consider that anything with airships in it is steampunk.So the current Matrix knock-off called "Equilibrium" qualifies.Wild Wild West of course, and the Michael Moorcock Captain Bastablestories. Not enough good s-f film being produced these days. The toolsare all there. But if you read about mother=mega-millionaire PeterJackson from Lord of the Rings, the only idea he has for a newproject is to remake King Kong.
