that's cool. It's a nice thread. One thing I'd point out to him is it could take some time to break those Omega 15's in with SET gear. I went through that. New ones have a stiff suspension to be able to handle few hundred watts, and they need to move to get loose. I finally hooked up an Adcom ss-amp and played Tupac very loud through them when I went out for several days. My poor dog...
