I have no idea where to put this question so here goes:TC, you mentioned some time ago that you did the manufacturingfor some Speakerlab speakers. I got a pair of the S-1's for use as HT surrounds about5 or so years ago when my interest in speakerbuilding wasgetting going for real. I have used the cabs for experiments in sound but myquestion is: Do you have drawing and construction detailsthat aren't proprietary for the boxes themselves? The S-1 box seems heavier and more dense (using the knucklerap test) than other enclosures I've encountered. Justthe materials and joinery method is what I'm interested in.lon@athenet.net
