Hi Norris, myself and a bunch of others over on AK speaker forum are building up these JBL waveguides using Selenium D210T drivers. There is a great crossover already developed for the combo as well. I had those JBL guides on for just a couple days. Below is a picture of my ESS AMT 1C project using the waveguide and Selenium instead of the Heil. Today I disassembled the ESSs and have been refinishing the veneer repainting all the black parts, and redoing the old funky grills with black sheer.I thought the Pi midhorn was made to use the 10" Alfa driver. Wouldn't a 5" driver be too small for the horn throat? Cheers.
