No, It is cool and certainly the scientist have to eat too. It just strikes me odd we have so much poverty and problems right here in North America but we send millions (more like billions) around the world when ever another country is faced with a disaster. Just my bitch session that sprouts up about this time every year when I look at my W2 and then combine all that tax with all the other taxes I pay in everyday spending. Sales tax, property tax, gas tax, school tax. you name it and I bet only 1/3 of my pay actually pays for a service rendered or goods! bitch, bitch bitch....
