Subject: Best new music I've heard lately:The Louvin Brothers
Posted by lon on Sun, 03 Oct 2004 01:12:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

What a hoot but hard to describe. I heard the Louvin Brothersas a breakaway act during a webstream of the Democracy Now! news hour. That few seconds was enough for me to chase down the info on Google and alert our statewide folk music program's host for the next requestprogram. The song played after a feature on the news was "The Great Atomic Power." It would put you in mind of Homer and Jethro or one ofthose primative Apalachian acts featured in _Oh Brother Where Art Thou?_ or The Fugs (Alan Ginsberg, Ken Sanders and Tuli Kupferberg.) I'd categorise "The Great Atomic Power" as Christian ApocalypticHoe-down. Not to be missed. This stuff should be on the top ten, butof course it never is.