Just heard on the news... a drug dealer selling heroin for many years was convicted and sentenced to jail for 12 and a half years, the tax office then said you have to pay tax on all your drug money. what makes it more funny is that the convicted drug dealer said people stole about a quarter of a million dollars drug money from him in 1995 and gunshots were fired at the time, so he didnt wanna pay tax on that, but they said he has too. so the drug dealer took the Australian Tax Office to court and he won the case and got a $200,000 tax deduction from the rest of the tax on his drug money he has to pay :P
