Boy is that the truth. It's too bad the team sports we and other kids grew up with are more about the players and the corporations now. It's even difficult for middle class to attend large venue sports. I love hockey and follow it more than anything else. What's your favorite team? "don't know where they are these days" Who's your favorite player? "Don't know any players" But I love hockey, follow it like the sun as I pay close attention to 2 or 3 games a year. I guess it's more fun to be a fan, when they play.
