Subject: Re: 60th Anniversary of the end of WWII
Posted by Wayne Parham on Mon, 15 Aug 2005 19:16:36 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

No way. The American revolution was begun with terrorism because we couldn't initially put an army together. But our intentions against the British were pretty clear. The war was waged in a different way, using different tactics, but it was still a war.