Mr V; short break in hostilities. I must say this; there are people who post on this site who behave like small children; they initiate a post as if they are serious individuals but then when you reply with respect they insult you and run away. You stick to your guns and for that I respect you regardless of how you insulted me with the clueless remark. Before we resume hostilities let me commend you on standing your ground like a man instead of slinking away like a weasal.So; let the games resume.I don't support terrorists; so how has torturing people we suspect of being terrorists helped our cause?
