I agree and disagree with both of you. In respect to prisoners; they have no rights. They gave up all their rights when they commit crimes against the rule of our land. We need to stop trying to get other countries to live by our laws too. Just like if they don't like ours they should go someplace else, we should abide by what laws other small countries have. Don't want to get caned? Don't piss them off. Don't want to go to jail for smoking dope? Smoke in your own backyard. Torture? Is it not torture alone to watch the news and see what terrorist and criminals do to everyday society...Bush isn't doing a good job. He doesn't have any good ideas and he can't even put good advice to use. I would just assume see a good republican administration, but this one isn't it. Just my opinion and it looks like the country is 50/50 on this one too. A born again supreme justice? Wow...You guys make it enjoyable to chat and bitch about current affairs. Always better to hash on stuff with other opinions than your own. It strengthens your opinions or changes them. either way life moves ahead another day.
