IS summer ending? seemed like a great one this year. Cold dark night, miserable rain and vodka on the rocks. More than likely another good weekend to be had before the snow flies but it sure aint gonna be this one! I just bought on of those pellet burning stoves so I'm trying to envision how toasty its going to be this winter. Been looking for a few years and since they started talking about natural gas going up so much this year, I figured now is as good a time as any! Store are sold if you can believe. next delivery come in 3 weeks and the man says that might be it for the year.
