You still have not responded to Bush's tax cuts and that the rich are paying more under them. So I must assume you agree with Bush's tax cuts. After all they are achieving the very thing you are complaining about. A simple, "I was wrong about Bush's tax cuts" would be the appropriate thing for you to post now.And yes, you have changed the subject. The only thing I am angry about is that the rich pay most of the taxes. They are being hosed. And no I am not even close to being rich. Why is it fair that most of the people in the country only contribute 4 or 5 percent of the money it costs to run the country? I do not believe your numbers. Prove to me that the richest in the country only pay 8% of their income to taxes. If you can't prove this point then it's only your opinion and not fact.
