Hey man give me some time here. You read one one page blog and suddenly you're an expert. It's hard work getting at the truth. The next proof is that the wealthiest 10% pay less than they did ten years ago per capita and that the middle class under Bush pays more than the wealthiest 10%. Funny how you disregard everything said up to this point and use your one suspect source as the final solution to the debate. Sorry; do some research. If this is important to you get on the stick and find some facts. The Bush administration has been a disaster for the middle class and now: Everyone out there reading this... There is a initiative under the Bush administration currently in discussion to cut the MORTGAGE DEDUCTION on YOUR house to a maximum of 300k allowable. Watch out guys; here goes your future down the drain. And your childrens legacy.
