But there is no use in responding when accusations are false and not based on facts or truth. For example, following are the false accusations you make in just your short four sentence post above.1) I never said Tom Delay was innocent or guilty.2) I have not "disappeared" since Tom Delay was indicted. 3) I am not a hard core reactionary neo-con that hates to be proven wrong. You wrote four sentences with three errors. This is actually pretty good for a liberal. When you want to actually debate something that has merit "maybe" I'll respond. I won't hold my breath.
