Yeh, good point. From Whom you take advise has been quandry for some time. Expert, Specialist or layman. I always thought being an audiophile was a state of mind. no? There is no prerequasite that I'm aware. No test or requiremnt of qualification. Hell, not even a hearing test! Realistically, our kids and wife have far superior hearing than us old guys. Its for fun, passion and appreciation a person is called an audiphile. I'm not one. I like to build things and I like the persuit of the equipment more than the music! I just happen to like good music also.stidd.com  just teasing buddy, they have some nice stuff up your way
