I dont mind the hole in the water part. The thing I find frustrating is the time frame of decent weather after winter, before you go back in the water is short. No trips planned, yet. Talking to a buddy about maybe going across the lake to Kingston. I wouldnt mind a cruise to Niagara on the lake either. We stopped there last year and it was great. Right now I'm just interested in back in the water and giving it a shake down from the work this spring. What are you up to this summer?
