Don Byron has a real nice CD called Bug Music. It is Clarinet lead band of modernised music from the twenties. Like the Little Rascals sound. Trying some of the newer pschycedellic bands such as Anthill Ceremony. You know I used to lsten to the Thistle and Shamrock hour all the time but lately it seems the music has this real engineered sound like they are using lots of effects and signal processing. I tend to feel the older simpler mastering served that Celtic stuff better. After Clannad began to eq. all their music and add lots of synthesized riffs it got monotonous. And they must have sold well because it seems a lot of bands followed suit.
