Yeah it's too bad things cant be private but what difference does it make? It doesn't bother me. I assume some agency can listen in on whatever they want anyway. all this jibber jabber is just making headlines to rile people up. millions of people make deals on cell phones and anyone can listen in on those. people send emails. If you think the internet is a secure place to carry on your most secret and personal on goings. I think your mistaken. Do I like it? no. Do I care? not enough to worry about it. I dont think the NSA is concerned with my latest speaker design or my new inventions for the jewelry industry. just aint gonna happen! It's like oulawing guns, the only people with guns will be the criminals.
