

---

Subject: Re: I think...

Posted by Manualblock on Sat, 08 Jul 2006 12:54:11 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

So? They already proved that twice; I know I am not being heard here; I speak to the deaf. The only people in my experience who consistently vote against their own interests. It's really a carnivale; "Step Right UP!" They confuse them with difficult arguments about Gays and Creationism and Taxes so they vote their way. No one ever went broke underestimating the brains of the middle-class voter. They'll vote a huge tax increase for the wealthy because they get a one time 300$ bonus; but pay forever. Now that's real bright. I only post out of sheer amazement at the foolishness. I used to hope I could gain some understanding of why they do this; but that never happened. No explanation ever appeared.

---