Subject: Team America
Posted by Wayne Parham on Fri, 10 Dec 2004 05:35:50 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Did you happen to see "Team America"? It has nothing to do with Christmas or Betty Bowers, except maybe the political humor. At first, the movie was so slow going I was sure I'd made a mistake. But after maybe 5 minutes, it gets deliciously irreverent.The best part is that Trey Parker and Matt Stone are equal opportunity bashers, meaning that pretty much no matter what your views, all are equally insulted. And they have a gift of making it easy to laugh at. America's right gets roasted, the left gets lampooned and outside governments that are hard for America to deal with get blasted pretty good too. I'm dying to tell you the "body parts analogy," but that's a little too close to being a spoiler, so I'll just let you watch and see.