Hey; where have you been? Before I reply have you seen the 811 project going on?About who should live or die. Lets not get confused; no one is in favor of killing anyone, she was already dead. Without a brain you are dead.Soon with modern technology they will be able to keep a corpse functioning,, so is that o'kay? We'll all walk around like Night Of The Living Dead.Secondly; people have rights, one of which is the right to determine their own fate. She expressly said; as I have and my wife has, that under those circumstances we choose not to be forced to exist as something less than an animal in pain and dying slowly.I am not interested in anothers personal beliefes controlling how I live; or how I die. And I especially would not accept anyone dictating a slow and horrible death for me.Would you really watch if one you love was subjected to a forced existance with nothing human left in them? I couldn't.
